

Volunteering

What kind of support will I receive from PUGS?

You will be provided an adoption coordinator who will be your main point of contact. Your adoption coordinator will help you through every step of the foster and adoption process and will help you get authorization for vet visits, answer questions/give advice about health and behavior issues, and help screen and select applicants. You will also receive access to basic medical supplies, a training manual to help you through every step of the foster process and access to our volunteer leadership. All of our volunteer leadership is here to support you in whatever way you need. We are accessible by phone at most any time and always by email as well. Our volunteers have years of experience with rescuing pugs, have a passion to save pugs, and will do everything in their power to make this an enjoyable experience for you!

PUGS will provide for authorized standard and any emergency care that a foster pug requires preferably through billing to the rescue; however, may require reimbursement.
